

Greetings!

As we begin our 20th season, we felt it was important to communicate more often with our members, in addition to our frequent audition and production announcements. We hope to share information each quarter about our members' theatre adventures with NQCT, as well as other local theatre groups; important changes within the group; and special announcements. I'm sure you have noticed that we have officially changed our name to North Quincy Community Theatre. We have outgrown our previous name, although we can never thank enough the group of alumni who founded the theatre 20 years ago. The season begins with the British mystery, "something to Hide," directed by Tracy Phelan, followed by "Visiting Mr. Green," in March, directed by Andrew Rhodes and finally, "Lie, Cheat and Genuflect," in June, directed by Kami Crary. The production manager for "Something to Hide" is Julie Sullivan; the stage manager is Evie Moffett, and the assistant stage manager is Pat Brawley. The cast includes:

Howard Holt:	Gregg Carlo	Julie:	Tara-Jean Grabert
Karen Holt:	Julie Collinge	Mr. Purdie:	Michael Jorgenson
Inspector Davies:	Ray O'Hare	Stella:	Erica Prussman
Miss Cunningham:	Irene Szewczak

Performances are October 6, 7, 12, 13, and 14 at 8:00 p.m.

Michael Jorgenson

Best wishes and good health to Jim Ryan who is recovering from recent surgery. I'm sure we will see him on the stage soon.

2007 – 2008 Season

The Reading Selection Committee welcomes ideas for the 2007 – 2008 season. If you have any play suggestions for the committee to read, or you would like to be on the reading selection committee, please call Evelyn Moffett at 781-848-4995 or e-mail her at emoffett@downeycocpa.com. The committee usually reads 9 or 10 plays before narrowing its decision to 3 productions for next year. Committee members must take the time to read all the plays.
